Aviatrix Scrapbook

Irish pilot Lady Mary Heath was at the height of her fame and one of the best-known women in the world in the 1920s when, just before the National Air Races in Cleveland in 1929, she crashed her light plane into a factory roof and was seriously injured.

Lady Heath was taken to Lakeside Hospital, where she remained in a coma with life-threatening injuries for several weeks, tended to by a young nurse named Ruth M. Stewart.

Lady Heath survived. When she finished her convalescence at the hospital she gave Ms. Stewart a signed photograph of herself and the hand-drawn map of the airport that had

Awesome Paint Jobs

Here is a link to a PDF of over 50 airplanes with unusual paint jobs.

Celebration of 2020 and 2021 Scholarship Winners

Save the Date!

On Saturday March 13th join us to celebrate the 2020 and 2021 Scholarship winners!

Commander Beth Young, US Coast Guard Retired, will be sharing with us her story – from the Service Academy through Navy Flight School and on to flying Coast Guard Missions. We are so looking forward to all her stories and insights. Don't miss it!

been in her pocket when she crashed.

The young nurse carefully placed the items and an article about the crash into the scrapbook she meticulously kept about her life in the 1920s.

Almost a century and a long journey later, the scrapbook made its way into the hands of the daughter of that young nurse.
